Addressing social issues with leading-edge technologies in materials and processing

At Toyocolor, we have been adding beauty to people's minds and lives by applying our unique color technologies that we have cultivated through many years of operation. We have continued to make suggestions for spiritual wealth and solutions to social issues, through colors and functionality of our products created by our leading-edge technologies — that is, technologies for materials and processing — which evolve constantly. We will work to fulfill our corporate social responsibility to realize "For a Vibrant World," the value provided by the Toyo Ink Group, by becoming a group of business persons who keep learning, growing, and evolving all the time, so as to be trusted and needed by all stakeholders.

Providing new value by evolving our unique polymer technology

At Toyochem, we offer a wide range of products, such as adhesives, can coatings, functional resins, coating materials and a sensing system, by leveraging our polymer technology based on synthetic and coating technologies. They are used in a variety of products, ranging from packaging and industrial materials, such as product packages and labels, to medical products, digital equipment, batteries, and automobiles. To solve global social issues, such as environmental issues and changes in the social structure caused by ICT, we will continue to provide new value by innovatively evolving our unique technology.

Taking on challenges toward the sustainable growth of businesses and society

Printing inks and other products and services from Toyo Ink have been providing new value to everyday life by adding colors and diverse functions to product packages and printed matters in every field. Today, our business environment is at a great turning point due to global social issues, such as climate change and ocean plastic pollution, and waves of digital transformation. At Toyo Ink, we will contribute to a sustainable society by going beyond mere manufacturing and providing unique products with added value that are appropriate for the new era.
